Open Source Award 2004

WIN £500 +

a trip to the Open Source Convention

UKUUG is again seeking significant contributions to free and open source; this might be in the form of an article or paper, software product, or other contribution.

The reward for the best contribution is a cash prize of £500. In addition, O'Reilly (UK) will take the winner to the 2004 Open Source Convention to be held in the USA in July.

Do you have a project that has been or might be significant in the world of open source? Student projects are eligible. If your work is part of a joint project, please state clearly your contribution.

Please send a one-page summary (accompanied by an abstract and a short biography of about 250-500 words) of your project, software, book, or idea to UKUUG's Secretariat.

The deadline is 2 April 2004.
